Faith Christian Mission

I will give thanks to the LORD with all my heart; I will tell of all Your wonders. I will be glad and exult in You; I will sing praise to Your name, O Most High.
Psalms 9:1-2

Thanksgiving is an attitude of the heart. It looks forward to sharing what God has done in our lives. Nothing is too small a detail to be grateful for. By having an attitude of thanksgiving we demonstrate the presence of the Spirit in us and the truth of the gospel message. At YWAM/FCM, we are so thankful for our generous supporters who also pray for us. We are thankful for our families who support our calling and believe with us. We are grateful for the Native churches we partner with every week and all the local believers who work with us. We appreciate each member of our board who dedicates so much time and resources to supporting the vision to disciple Interior Alaska.

There is much to be thankful for when we take a little time and write them down—we encourage you to do the same!

Testimony: A lady had a husband who had been a pastor at one time, but had stopped serving God and began to drink. He had internal bleeding from drinking so much and was in the hospital from it. Pastor Craig went to the hospital to pray for him and led him back to God. She testified that his heart had changed and he was not drinking anymore. Another lady went up for prayer who had a toothache so bad she had trouble sleeping at night. She went up for prayer and said her pain stopped immediately. She was able to sleep again and said other pains she was experiencing had left as well. God often does more than what we asked for!

Prayer Requests:

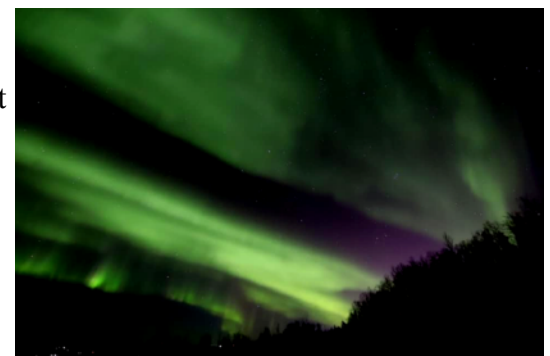

- Revival Services in Native Churches
- Long-Term Staff and their health

Bottom left picture is a ladies meeting at the YWAM base. We often allow churches to use the campus for special meetings and seminars. Above is one of our weekly Wellspring meetings that focus on discipleship and inner healing. They were covering the topic of "Rejection." There is much hurt in many of the Native communities and this is an area that people request healing for. As we went through the prayers, many there experienced emotional deliverance and wept before God.

Winter has truly settled in with snow on the ground and the Aurora Borealis being very active. One of our friends took this picture the other night that was full of green and purple hues. It is truly a wonder of nature.

We will be having a large Thanksgiving dinner at the base on Thanksgiving Day that we invite staff and friends to, as well as any families that need a place to enjoy it. Let us all give thanks for what God has done and remember those in need around us.
